

ROOSEVELT FORCES DROP FIGHT ON RULES TODAY

$7,000 IS CUT FROM PAY FOR CO. OFFICIALS

Reduced Salaries And Expense Accounts Voted By Board

A slash in salaries in the various county offices, a continuation of a program launched more than a year ago by members of the Board of Supervisors, was voted yesterday. The reduction, which was recommended by the Fees and Salaries committee, totalled approximately $7,000 from the salaries of county officers and their employees and becomes effective July 1. County officials estimated that the salary slash would effect a reduction in taxes amounting to approximately 1.42 mills on the one thousand dollar assessed valuation.

"It is a step forward" said one of the members of the board who has been active since last September in fighting for a reduction in salaries of county officials and employees. "The members of the Board of Supervisors are the hardest hit of all, and as I view conditions, we have just started. State legislation is the next step to reduce county expenditures. Five dollars per day for jurors is out of all proportion, but that is the figure fixed by law. Jurors come into this court house and never perform any other duty than walking up the steps and standing around for a few minutes, then are ordered to collect their $5 and mileage and walk out again. Changed legislation can work wonders in the reduction of taxation in Lee and other counties of the state and it must come if this plan is to be successful."

Board of Review.
At the opening of yesterday afternoon's session of the board, Chairman Gilbert P. Finch called the attention of the board to the action at the morning session in reducing the salaries of the members of the Board of Review. It was explained that a cut of from $5 to $4 was made for the members of the board last year and the salary of the clerk was reduced from $5.50 to $3. The board consented to allow these figures to stand for this year and make no changes.

Chairman Finch explained that the State Department of Agriculture would pay into Lee county, a sum amounting to $1,500 to be applied toward the salary of the County Veterinarian and by the consent of the board, this salary was permitted to stand at $2,880 including the state refund.

The fees and salaries committee submitted its second recommendation relating to the salary and expense account of the County Superintendent of Highways, which provided for an expense account of $1,220 for the ensuing year. At the morning session, the board voted to send back to the committee for a satisfactory report, a recommendation relating to the salary and expense account of this officer.

$350 For Repairs.
The building committee's recommendation that a sum not to exceed $350 be expended for repairs necessary at the county jail, was favorably acted upon.

The proposed date when the proposed wage cuts would become effective, was called to the attention of the Board. Supervisor Charles Ramsdell of Franklin Grove suggested July 1, which date met with the approval of the board.

Supervisor Charles Kuebel of the Fees and Salaries committee informed the board that his committee had received bids of $1.50 and $2.50 per hour for the audit of records of the various county officers, and the board voted unanimously to empower the committee to employ the services of a competent auditor to canvass the county records.

Supervisor Ortleson informed the board that the state's fund to Lee county for the payment of blind pensions amounted to approximately $3,000 but added that the payment of the mother's pensions was far delinquent and the latter represented about $15,000 annually in Lee county.

The Judiciary committee reported to the board dissolving the application of Richard Fauth, county home inmate for a blind pension.

Backed Up On Action.
At this juncture of the smooth-sailing afternoon session the board went into a tail spin, when the question of abolishing the office of County Trust officer and Assistant Superintendent of Schools was presented. Supervisor Leon Hart had appealed to the board asking their reconsideration of the salary slash of the clerk in the office of County Superintendent of Schools.

L. W. Miller, which he termed unfair in proportion to the other reductions. The Educational committee requested and received a 20-minute recess to permit an investigation when the question arose as to whether Lee county was locally bound to maintain a County Trust Officer.

Upon reconvening the Education committee.

The suspect was arrested yesterday before dawn when found with Bernard Priary, 34, acting suspiciously in front of a closed market. Police said Luce carried a diamond window cutter, a flashlight and other implements used by burglars.

'LONE EAGLE' RELATES HOW HE WAS DUPED

C. Lindbergh Testifies Against John Curtis This Morning

BULLETIN

Flemington, N. J., June 28—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh testified today that the activities of John Hughes Curtis had impeded both his own and police efforts to trace the kidnap-murders of the Lindbergh baby.

"I don't believe Mr. Curtis ever had contact with the kidnapers," Col. Lindbergh said under cross examination, "but I did believe it at the time."

Speaking of the $50,000 ransom paid for him in a Bronx cemetery to a mysterious "John" by Dr. John P. Condon, Col. Lindbergh said the police "were not given an opportunity to surround the spot where the money was paid."

He said the police know the money was to be paid but that only he, Dr. Condon, and a few others knew the exact time and place in advance.

Colonel Lindbergh was followed to the stand by Edmund Bruce of Elmira, N. Y., a friend of Curtis.

Flemington, N. J., June 28—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh testified today that John Hughes Curtis told him he had information that the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby was arranged by a member of the Lindbergh household, and that he thought that person was a girl.

Among spectators in the courtroom who heard this testimony were two women members of the Lindbergh domestic staff, Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, and Mrs. Ollie Wheatley, the housekeeper. Both were at the Lindbergh home in Hopewell when the baby was stolen. Both were questioned at the time by police, and both were completely exonerated of any implication.

Under prosecution questioning Col. Lindbergh told of Curtis' description to him of the schooner on which the defendant told him the kidnapers were holding the baby for ransom. He then mentioned a visit to New York City he made with Curtis on April 20.

"We went to E. 76th St.," he said. "Mr. Curtis left for a time and returned with a chart of the Block Island area. The chart was marked where the kidnap boat could be met. It was at that time that I began to feel definitely that Mr. Curtis was in contact with the persons who had my son."

Lindbergh said Curtis told him the kidnap craft had been off the Jersey coast, that it was a black Gloucester fisherman and that it had a temporary cabin aft. He was even told what speed the boat was capable of and what type engine it had.

The witness said that on the day he was shown the chart he started for Block Island to meet the schooner. With Curtis and Edmund Bruce he drove to Stonington, Conn., where they arranged for a small boat in which they went to the appointed spot. The kidnap boat was not there.

Telephone Woman.
After cruising around for three hours and questioning occupants of other boats Col. Lindbergh said they returned to a New York hotel where in his presence Curtis telephoned a woman he called Hilda who told him her husband, known as "Dynamite," was "on location." Hilda and Dynamite were both mentioned by Curtis as members of the kidnap band.

Going to Norfolk from New York Lindbergh said he boarded the yacht Maroon with Lieut. George N. Richards, U. S. N., who had been flying Curtis around on his trips, and Rear Admiral Guy W. Burege, U. S. N., retired, who had vouched for Curtis to Lindbergh. Just as they went aboard, intending to try to meet the kidnap boat "on location" Curtis announced he had been informed the schooner had moved to a point 20 miles east of Chesapeake Light.

Failed To Find Boat.
"We arrived on location before daybreak on the 23rd of April," Col. Lindbergh testified. "We did not see the boat. Mr. Curtis described. We returned to Norfolk."

Other trips followed, Col. Lindbergh said, but they were all futile, although the Navy cooperated, some days Navy fleets covering 7,000 square miles in their search.

After returning to New York Lindbergh said Curtis told him he had been in touch with Hilda and she had quoted Dynamite as saying there was too much Coast Guard activity, and he wanted the contact made by plane.

Back to Norfolk they went and there Curtis told of Dean H. Dobson-Percoc, another of his Virginia sponsors, having visited him in New York with a message from the kidnapers. Curtis said the Dean was taken to the eighth floor of a New York hotel which he found out.

Wets Stage Demonstration For Repeal

Cheering and parading, delegations from many states joined in a demonstration of approval when Senator Alben W. Barkley, the keynote speaker, advocated action on the question of repealing the 18th amendment in his address at the opening of the Democratic National Convention. Here is the scene that was enacted on the convention floor.

MEANS' ALLEGED ACCOMPLICE IN HOAX ARRESTED

"The Fox", Captured In New York, Promises Statement Later

New York, June 28—(AP)—Norman Whitaker, "The Fox" through whom Gaston B. Means promised Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington to return the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, was held here today as a fugitive from justice.

Police said he was wanted in Washington, D. C., on a charge of conspiracy and grand larceny growing out of the case in which Means, a former government operative, was convicted of defrauding Mrs. McLean of $104,000. Means is under sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

Whitaker was arrested in Brooklyn last night by detectives and Department of Justice agents who had been "covering" a house on Lake street where Whitaker had been living with his wife and father-in-law. He was taken to police headquarters, where, police disclosed today, Mrs. McLean and her maid identified him as the man taken to Mrs. McLean's Alhambra, S. C., cottage by Means during the "kidnap negotiations."

Lived Up To Name.
"How much of the $104,000 did you get?" Assistant Chief Inspector John Sullivan asked him in the police lineup today.

"I got none of it, but I wish I did," he replied.

"Were you double-crossed?" The prisoner smiled.

"How long have you known Gaston Means?" he was asked.

"I never admitted knowing him, and I don't care to make a statement. I want a lawyer," he replied to the question.

"But you are a lawyer," the Inspector said.

"I was a lawyer, but I was disbarred," Whitaker replied.

Urged to make a clean breast of his connection with Means and the Lindbergh case, he said he would as soon as he got a lawyer.

Whitaker, police said, is best known as "The Fox" although he also is known as Neil Williams, the name by which he was identified during the trial of Means in Washington.

FREQUENTLY MENTIONED.
Washington, June 28—(AP)—The "Fox" was frequently mentioned in the trial of Means for defrauding Mrs. McLean, estranged wife of the former publisher of the Washington Post, but he was identified only by the name of Neil Williams. Witnesses said how- ever, that was not his real name.

A high point in the case was the introduction of a note signed by Mrs. McLean which said:

"For Gaston B. Means, this is your authorization to turn over to Neil Williams the $100,000 in your custody. 3-23-32."

(Signed) Evelyn McLean.

REP. DEVINE IN THICK OF FIGHT TO RETAIN RULE

Dixon Legislator Is For Retention Of Two-Thirds Proviso

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, June 28—(AP)—Melvin Traylor will be placed in nomination for the presidency by Michael L. Igoe, Democratic leader for years in the state legislature.

This was decided upon last night at a conference of Traylor supporters.

The Traylor headquarters was jubilant today over the trend of the delegates' talk—talk that added momentum to the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

The forces of the downstate delegates supporting the New York Governor claimed around 20 votes yesterday, but their strength in other quarters was placed at but a dozen or so.

The Traylor delegates, led chiefly by the organization of Mayor Anton Cermak in Chicago and Cook county, were prepared to carry on to the convention floor the expected fight over the two-thirds rule and to seat J. J. Devine as permanent chairman.

Devine Leads Fight.
Despite Roosevelt's statement against abrogation yesterday, the two-thirds rule squabble was still paramount at today's session and Jhon P. Devine, Dixon legislator and Illinois member of the Rules committee, joined the proponents of abrogation for the fight.

Devine voted steadily last night in the Rules committee to retain the rule, although the majority favored submission of the two-thirds question after the sixth ballot, if no presidential choice is made.

Just as steadily W. Emery Lancaster of Quincy voted to seat Shouse as permanent chairman. The House forces lost to the Roosevelt-supported Senator Walsh, Lancaster prepared the minority report of the organization committee for presentation today.

The dominating strength of the Illinois delegation was with the Illinois committee-men: Both for retention of the two-thirds rule and the seating of Shouse.

Traylor vs Ritchie.
The Cermak forces claim between 45 and 50 of Illinois' 58 votes on both questions.

At the Traylor headquarters Frank Scofield, the banker's campaign manager expressed the belief that the southern states, in the event of a deadlock over Roosevelt, would hasten to Traylor's support.

The banker's backers now believe the nomination lies between Traylor and Governor Ritchie of Maryland.

Ritchie will have a few of the Illinois votes. His chief supporter is Floyd Thompson, once the nominee for Governor and subsequently Supreme Court Justice. Too, the Chicago Board of Trade's persistent plugging for the Maryland Governor has swayed others of the delegates.

DAWES REFUTES RUMORS OF HIS BANK MERGING

Cash Position Of Central Republic Bank "Impregnable"

Chicago, June 28—(AP)—Along LaSalle Street's financial row traders today hailed as a steady influence reassuring statements intended to wither rumors and speculation concerning the affairs of Gen. Charles G. Dawes' Central Republic Bank & Trust Company, which is the most financially sound institution in the city.

Gen. Dawes, whose return as Chairman of the bank yesterday was accompanied by a spectacular downward plunge of its stock, himself hastened to set at rest rumors of a merger with the city's largest institution, the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Company, and declared Central Republic's cash position was "impregnable."

And from Vice Chairman Joseph L. Otis came an explanation for the precipitous drop that sent the stock, in over-the-counter sales, from $47 bid and $49 asked of Saturday to $1 bid and $4 asked at the close yesterday.

"We simply withdrew our support," he said.

Gen. Dawes, who returned to control of the bank yesterday after almost eight years in public service as Vice President under Coolidge, Ambassador to Great Britain and head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, declared the institution was made impregnable by negotiated loans which were necessitated by heavy recent drains on cash resources.

Otis said the loans were obtained from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and it was understood the amount was sufficient to pay off all depositors in full if necessary.

Bonus Campers Are Now Short Of Food
Washington, June 28—(AP)—Faced by new problems, the bonus army's leadership today changed hands again.

Thomas Kelly of Camden, N. J., who has been Acting Commander-in-Chief of the tattered war veterans since the resignation of Walter W. Waters of Portland, Ore., vacated his post, and was succeeded by George Kleinholz of Portland, Oregon.

A steady downpour of rain aggravated the temper of the rank and file, now facing a food shortage. Stocks now on hand were sufficient for only a few hours.

With the expenditure of the last of the bonus marchers' benefit fund, police withdrew from the veterans' financial administration and left them to solve their own problems.

Metropolitan police also followed Maryland state police in refusing further transportation from the city.

Plane Lost Hour's Fight With Storm

Port Washington, N. Y., June 28—(AP)—A storm-tossed airplane, which terrified hundreds of Long Island residents for almost an hour, finally crashed last night, killing Gilbert Burnett, 23, an Army Corporal, and fatally injuring the pilot, Lieut. First Controversies of Today Are Over Credentials

BULLETIN

Chicago Stadium, June 28—(AP)—Senator Huey Long's Roosevelt-backed Louisiana delegation was voted admission to the Democratic national convention today.

Vote on the Louisiana contest was: For the Long delegation 638; against 514.

Illinois cast 504 votes against the "Kingfish" and 74 in his favor.

BULLETIN
Chicago Stadium, June 28—(AP)—Some close friends of J. J. Shouse today conceded that he would be defeated for the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic convention by Senator Walsh of Montana, the Roosevelt choice.

Chicago Stadium, June 28—(AP)—The rules of the last Democratic convention requiring a two-thirds majority for nomination of a presidential candidate were adopted by the Rules committee today after the compromise was cast aside.

Completely reversing the position it took yesterday, the committee also decided to recommend the convention adopt its platform before nominating candidates for President and Vice-President.

The committee opened the way for adoption by the next convention of a plan for abolition of the century old two-thirds rule. It recommended the 1936 convention abrogate the rule, but specifically stipulated that it would not be bound by the recommendation.

Missourians At War.
The Missouri delegation today held up for 22 hours the proceedings of the convention by barricading itself in the Rules committee room and preventing formulation of the procedure of the Rules committee.

J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, chairman of the Rules committee, called the police and stadium ushers to expell the Missourians who included former Senator James A. Reed, a presidential candidate, but the stubborn Missourians held their ground.

Meanwhile the hand played in the Stadium to try to keep the impatient delegates quiet.

By BYRON PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago Stadium, June 28—(AP)—Bewildered by a night of somersaulting developments, and wholly uncertain of what might happen next, the Democrats reassembled today in the Stadium to loiter through a couple of credentials contests while their real issues waited outside the wings.

Louisiana's turbulent factions, and a Roosevelt-Smith contest from Minnesota claimed the floor with appeals to the party's highest court—the convention itself. The outcome of the contest greatly changed the situation on the broader questions demanding action later in the day.

One of these was the selection of a permanent chairman. The candidates were Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, backed by the supporters of Roosevelt, and J. J. Shouse of Kansas, choice of the opposition. Every canvass indicated the result as close, and electroneering continued right up to the last moment.

Two Thirds Rule Stands.
It appeared likely that the much heralded battle over the old two-thirds rule would not be staged after all. Just before noon convening hour, the Roosevelt camp, after modifying its previous demand for abrogation of the rule withdrew it entirely.

A new meeting of the Rules Committee was ordered by Chairman Kremer after James A. Farley, spokesman for Governor Roosevelt made a surprise appearance before the committee this morning and announced he favored retention of the two-thirds rule throughout the convention.

The majority of the committee which last night voted for a special rule permitting abrogation of the two-thirds precedent by a majority vote after six ballots, withdrew from the committee and went into conference with Farley.

Later Kremer, who is supporting the special rule calling for abrogation of the two-thirds requirement if six ballots fail to nominate, returned to the committee room where the minority members were assembled and announced that a special meeting of the committee would be held on the convention floor later today.

"This new meeting will be held," explained Kremer, "with a view to getting a report acceptable to the minority."

Hailed As Surrender.
Leaders of the minority, headed by Daniel F. Cohalen of New York hailed the move as a "complete surrender."

The anti-Rooseveltians had agreed earlier to take to the convention.

SURRENDER
OF SESSION

vention floor a report calling for adoption of a resolution frowning upon use of the rule at future conventions.

How all of this might react eventually on the big central problem of the nomination itself no one in the whole convention knew.

Talks of compromise. There was much talk of a compromise candidate as the delegates weary from conferences lasting most of the night, assembled slowly in the convention hall. Ritchie of Maryland was mentioned as a possible beneficiary of a breakup of present alignments, and the name of Newton D. Baker was heard in many discussions.

The convention was even slower than at yesterday's opening session in getting itself together. The hour of noon saw only a fraction of the delegations in their places, and the galleries almost empty.

The organizer in his gallery perch got the crowd interested for the first time when he broke into the song "Dixie." Most of the southerners and a good many others way in and cheered, and the yell with variations almost drowned out the tones of the organ.

Soon after 12:30 things began to look more businesslike on the big platform. Nearly the whole cast of characters had assembled. Senator Barkley, the temporary chairman, passed for the last time in the cameramen with the gavel he was soon to relinquish.

James A. Farley, Roosevelt's manager, went about the crowded aisles seeking out the waverers. He denied rumors he had broken with the Governor.

Ritchie Got Hand. Gov. Ritchie got a hand from the Marylanders and a ripple from elsewhere in the hall as he fought his way in to take his aisle seat on the Maryland front. The "Win-with-Ritchie" placards popped in sight again for a moment.

Senator Barkley made his first try for order at two minutes before one, whacking the gavel with a strong right arm. He evidently meant business, and the disorderly aisles began to clear up. Nearly everybody was a long way from home, however, and it was several minutes before the hall became at all quiet.

So many were on the floor that it looked as though seats would be at a premium. Some of the delegates had trouble getting intruders out of their places.

The galleries were nearly full, too, although some big empty patches appeared in the higher tiers and there was a vacant seat here and there lower down.

Leaders Not Ready. Just at 1 o'clock the business of the day really got started, but only for an announcement by J. Bruce Krenner of Montana, chairman of the Rules committee, that the committee would meet immediately in an adjoining room. It was called together to reconsider its decision of last night, endorsing a modified two-thirds rule.

Then there was a pause, for arrangements for the credentials fight had not yet been completed. Barkley retired to the back of the platform, and the hall became noisy again.

Senator Barkley rapped for order again at 1:15 after conferring with a knot of convention officials on the platform.

He presented the Rt. Rev. F. G. Ostrowski of Chicago who delivered the opening prayer.

Then, after another pause, Mrs. Howard A. Austin of Kansas City, in dark blue crepe-de-chine with blue hat, sang a song to the democracy, specially written for the occasion, exhorting the party to "keep united" and fight on.

Credentials Reports. John S. Hurley of Manchester, N. H., chairman of the Credentials committee, appeared at last at the front of the platform and read the committee report. It stated the Long faction of Louisiana and the faction led by Einar Holm in Minnesota.

Scott Lucas, Illinois, appeared to present the minority report on behalf of the Sander's faction of Louisiana opposed to the seating of a delegation led by Huey P. Long.

defense, Col. Lindbergh testified that after the baby's body was found he promised Curtis to do everything he could to give Curtis a chance to back up his story.

Then on May 15 Curtis made the confession that all his negotiations had been faked, a confession he has since repudiated.

"He said he had hoped to sell his story to a newspaper," Col. Lindbergh said. "But he could not give reason for doing what he did. He was embarrassed when he made the statement."

Lloyd Fisher conducted the cross examination of Col. Lindbergh. He asked if Lindbergh required the presence of state police on his various trips while he was seeking return of the baby.

"It's not for me to run the state police," Col. Lindbergh replied.

Didn't Ask Money. He said Curtis had asked for no money beyond requesting that $25,000 be deposited in a bank as "earnest money."

Col. Lindbergh said he was not impressed when Curtis first approached him about his alleged negotiations with the kidnappers.

"I listened to his story and told him I thought he was being misled," he testified, "but we wanted to keep all doors open."

He later became convinced Curtis was in touch with the kidnappers when Curtis told him of having seen in their possession some of the ransom money paid for the baby by Dr. Condon.

"I signed no complaint," Lindbergh replied.

The airman fixed his blue eyes on his questioner and told unemotionally yesterday of the first stages of the hunt. In a voice that rang out above the growl of a thunderstorm, he described how Curtis told him that one of the plotters, "John," wanted to sell the baby to the "highest bidder" among other gangs of criminals unless $25,000 ransom was quickly forthcoming.

Lindbergh told how Curtis, after making a trip "some miles off the New Jersey coast," met the airman at Cape May.

Said Girl Wrote Notes. Lindbergh said Curtis told him that Gretchen wrote all the ransom notes.

All during Lindbergh's testimony Curtis sat at the defense table, his head held high, listening intently.

Shortly before he put out on the boat Cachetol on May 9 in a new effort to contact the kidnappers, Lindbergh continued, Curtis told him of meeting "Hilda," one of the alleged kidnap band, in a New York railroad station.

"I feel I know too much for my own good about the people I'm dealing with," Col. Lindbergh quoted Curtis as telling him on that occasion.

Col. Lindbergh said that on numerous occasions when Curtis told him of contacts with the kidnappers and instructions they gave him, both Edmund Bruce of Elmira, N. Y., and Lieut. George Richards, U. S. N., were present.

Bruce is an old friend of Curtis who dropped him about on his reputed trips. Richards is a Navy flier who piloted Curtis on many of his journeys. Both are expected to be called as state witnesses.

Expressed His Faith. In telling of Curtis' remarks about a member of the Lindbergh household being implicated in the kidnapping, Col. Lindbergh expressed entire faith in his servants.

"We have only three servants and have absolute faith in them," he testified.

The third member of the Lindbergh household staff is Wheatley, husband of the housekeeper. He is the butler.

Prosecutor Anthony Hauck asked Lindbergh if at explanation Curtis gave when efforts to make contact with the kidnappers repeatedly failed.

"He said Hilda explained her husband was in a difficult position but would try to make contact," Lindbergh replied. "Mr. Curtis said he told her—using his words—if they were 'gin-pigging' me to say so and get out."

Told Of Finding Body. At last Col. Lindbergh came to the point in his story where he had to tell of the discovery of the baby's death. He had himself well in hand and spoke in a steady voice.

"On May 12," he said, "Mr. Bruce told that my son's body had been found."

"Did you identify the body?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes."

"How?"

"By the clothes and the feet."

Col. Lindbergh said that when the baby was found Curtis told him he would do everything possible to bring the kidnappers to justice.

On May 13, he said, Curtis repeated substantially all his story of negotiations with the kidnappers. The 13th is the first of five days mentioned in the indictment on which Curtis is alleged to have given false information. Curtis told his story that day, Lindbergh said, in the presence of state police and a federal operative.

Col. Lindbergh said that while he was making the last effort to reach the kidnappers before it was carried the baby was dead he was not accompanied on the boat by Curtis.

Was "Extremely Afraid." "Mr. Curtis as ashore from the 10th to 12th of May," he said. "He said he had gone to Cape May where Hilda's sister, Inez was operating the kidnappers' radio station." He said he was extremely afraid.

al committee reported and recommended to the board that they rescind their action of last week when the office of Assistant County Superintendent of Schools was abolished by the unanimous vote of the board and provisions made for the hiring of a clerk in this office.

While some members of the board favored the retention of the position, the committee's investigation revealed the fact that the law required that an Assistant Superintendent of Schools was necessary, after which the Truant Officer appointment was made by the County Superintendent of Schools.

The board voted to rescind its action of last week and permit the office of Assistant County Superintendent and Truant Officer was renewed. The question of salary again arose and Supervisor Knetsch presented a motion that the salary be fixed at $80 per month. A roll call vote, asked for by a voice of 14 to 11, the chairman ruling that the recommendation of the education committee affected the title of the officeholder only and sustaining the recommendation of the Fees and Salaries committee at the morning session, fixing the salary at $72 monthly.

Cut County T. B. Nurse. The board voted unanimously in favor of the contract and bonds submitted by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fry, Superintendent and Matron respectively, of the County Home.

As the closing matter of business confronted the board, Assistant Supervisor William Rose of Dixon asked the question of the Fees and Salaries committee.

"Will the Fees and Salaries committee explain to the board their reason for allowing the salary and expense account of the County Tuberculosis Nurse to stand unchanged when every other officer of the county has suffered a reduction?"

Supervisor Charles Kuebel of the committee in reply stated that this office had been completely overlooked by the committee. Immediately the fees and salaries committee went into conference and recommended to the board a reduction of 20 per cent in the salary and the allowance of but five cents per mile for travelling expenses, ten cents having been the previous figure.

men suspected of the crime fleeing westward in an old touring car with but three tires, were the cause of calling out deputy sheriffs, state high police and local officers last evening shortly after 7 o'clock.

Parts of the alleged murder reached Dixon by telephone and by two young men from Franklin Grove who sped to Dixon to impart the word to the local officials.

The men were halted in Sterling by the police of that city and investigation developed that there had been no murder and they were released after being detained a short time. As far as could be learned the men had been drinking and engaged in a quarrel and exchange of fistuffs on a gravel road north of Ashton, which led to the circulation of the erroneous report.

WATER LILIES

WATER lilies: Swimming, swaying, and floating in a pool of silver. Creamy, lemon, rose, and crimson. Cups of sunset glory. Smiling up with golden rays. To greet a golden sun. And as the wind ruffles and disturbs the pool. The circling ripples. Open into rings of light. And the tinted chalice. Dip and poise and swing. In the eddying currents. Of air and water.

Their smooth round leaves. Lie like green islands. Or go drifting, drifting. Till suddenly they rise and turn. Like fairy boats that hoist each winged sail. And faint would cast away. From anchorage; to fly and find. Far, still shore of silence. Where are no changing winds. But ever light illumined. A mirrored calm, and sweet tranquillity.

Style in Gardens
Definitely Colonial

There has always been a style in gardens just as there has in architecture, interior-decorating or in clothes. Just now the style is definitely Colonial in honor of the George Washington Bicentennial year. The sweet old fashioned flowers which grew in old time gardens are appearing again in great profusion in the garden plans of this season.

There is great demand, according to the Division of Information of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, for lists of those flowers and plants which probably grew at Mount Vernon when our first great president made his home there, and which gayly blossom there today.

The old flowers of the General's time are of course long since gathered to their ancestors, for flowers are not immortal by any means, any more than human. The trees and shrubs which Washington planted are still flourishing; oaks and buckeyes are there which have grown from acorns and "horse chestnuts" brought by him from the battle fields where he spent so many years as boy and man; ashes, poplars and indeed all the native tree are all about, but the flowers for the most part have been planted in recent years carrying out as nearly as possible the original plan of the garden.

The Nellie Custis rose which she planted is still there, and a Kentucky coffee tree brought from Jefferson's garden at Monticello as well as two hydrangea bushes planted by the south wall of the flower garden. There are also four "sweet shrubs"—Calycanthus floridus.

Of the flowers which adorned his gardens, as we have said, General Washington left little in the form of notes or observations. The boxed hedges enclosed the flower beds which probably varied in appearance from year to year, for here would be planted only such annuals as were popular. Washington's garden doubtless kept well in advance in the style owing to the constant gifts of plants, seeds and roots from all over the world. There is no doubt for that matter but what Mount Vernon gardens set the style in flower planting, at least in the southern colonies.

The pink rose, called the Mary Washington for the General's mother, was planted and named by him, while the Nellie Custis rose, which he also named and put in another corner, is the fragrant white, velvet-textured flower of romance that, from witnessing the love making and betrothal of ardent Lawrence Lewis, the General's favorite nephew, and black-eyed Nellie Custis, his wife's granddaughter, acquired a spell so potent to stimulate indifferent or procrastinating suitors that none who come within its influence to this day can resist it. Hence these rich white buds and blossoms have ever been much sought by maids of high and low degree, whose affections are set on the unsuspecting and unresponsive; for to present "him" with either flower or bud, so tradition avows, or lead him to inhale its fragrance, quickens the coldest masculine heart—such was the rare quality of these old lovers' love, clinging to, intoxicating and saturating for all time the sympathetic rose, even as the rose breathed its fragrance over and around them, to heighten their delight.

The Nellie Custis rose still blooms and is the mecca of all visitors to the gardens.

While it is not always possible to actually lay out a Colonial garden and to carry on extensive landscaping, it is possible for everyone to plant flowers in honor of George Washington this year. A window box or a small bed at your entrance will serve to express the admiration and reverence you feel for the "Father of His Country" who so dearly loved everything that grew and whose efforts and energies were centered, whenever possible, on beautifying his surroundings.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission is sponsoring a campaign for planting flowers in every vacant strip of available soil during this summer. Lists of Colonial flowers, annuals, perennials, etc., with color combinations, will be sent free upon request. Please address the Garden Editor, United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, Washington Building, Washington, D. C.

Meeting So. Dixon
Unit Home Bureau

On Wednesday afternoon, June 22nd, the So. Dixon Unit of the Home Bureau met at the Preston school on the Peoria Road. After a short business session, the local leader, Mrs. Harold McCleary, gave the lesson on the Preservation of Foods. This lesson, which was well presented, proved of much interest to the women. There was discussion of the subject indicating that every home maker wants to know more about it, especially this year, and each woman will try to preserve as much food as possible. The different ways of canning were explained, including open kettle, steam, and steam pressure, the latter being the most reliable.

A demonstration was given on How to Test Juices for Jellies, by using equal parts of alcohol and equal parts of fruit juices.

The different kinds of spoilage in fruits and vegetables was explained.

Following the lesson there was a program, which consisted of: A vocal duet by Miss Helen Travis and Miss Grace Origen and a vocal duet by Mrs. Fritts and daughter Lois, and a poem was read by Mrs. Nielsen. There was also a short period of recreation, after which all adjourned having spent a pleasant afternoon.

Happy Surprise Mr.
And Mrs. Ray Kline

Mr. and Mrs. George Prescott, with the assistance of a group of friends, planned and carried out a delightful surprise last evening for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kline, who yesterday celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kline were invited as dinner guests last evening of the Prescotts, and the dinner was served at the delightful summer home of the Prescotts, up the river. After dinner a group of friends arrived, a happy surprise for the Klines, to spend the evening. Four tables of bridge were formed, and Mrs. Kline carried off the favor for high honors for the ladies, with Dr. R. L. Trowbridge winning first favor for the gentlemen. Mrs. S. W. Lehman won the consolation favor.

After bridge the friends assembled presented Mr. and Mrs. Kline with many nice gifts with best wishes for continued happiness. C. A. Mellott was master of ceremonies and made a very neat presentation speech. The Klines expressed their gracious appreciation to all.

Concluding the happy evening delicious refreshments were served. Bouquets of beautiful summer flowers were used in decorating.

There is one infallible way, says Novelist Edna Ferber, in which you can always tell when a woman has reached middle age.

When she says, "I want a place of my own in the country, with some ground, and some trees—a place that's peaceful and quiet"; then, says Miss Ferber, you may know that middle age has claimed her. She is past the first flush of youth, and the second as well. The alarms and excursions of the mundane world have no more attraction for her. She is about ready to go on the shelf.

Now all of this may be useful to know, in a day when mothers look as youthful as their daughters, and age is harder to guess than ever before. Yet one is entitled to wonder if Miss Ferber can be entirely correct. If so, then youth flies more quickly than we had supposed.

For this hankering for a place in the country is one of the most widespread of all hankering, these days. It is voiced not only by the frankly middle-aged, but by the youthful as well; not only by dowagers, but by men—by men, in fact, of all ages, from the collegiate upward. And it represents, probably, a reaction to an urban life which has attained too fast a pace, an urban life which has made impossibly severe demands on the privacy and serenity of the individual citizen.

The cities of America are, in some ways, her most admirable achievements. They have a lusty vitality, a limitless energy, a great optimism, and faith that can occasionally move mountains. They present inspiring skylines, architecture that carries the spirit aloft to a new freedom, grandeur that is a tonic to the soul.

But we pay a terribly high price for them. They are crowded; some of them beyond all reason. They are noisy and dirty. They abound with miserable tenements and cramped apartments. The jerry-builder has flourished in their suburbs. The bill-board advertiser has bred in their vacant lots and along their outskirts. Depression moves parallel with inspiration.

From this 'he one great escape is the quiet place in the country, with some empty ground and some trees. We all long for it, instinctively recognizing that too much city can be a bad thing. It indicates middle age? It must be, then, that we age very quickly.

SMOKING WOMEN.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, is a man of great ability and undoubted sincerity. Yet when he says—as he did in an interview at Cleveland the other day—that "every smoking woman on earth would have been a drinker in our saloons, if the saloons were open," it is a little bit hard to believe that he means precisely what he says.

Indeed, it is hard to see just what the connection between smoking and drinking is. Undeniably, the practice of smoking has gained many feminine adherents in this country during the past decade; yet the places where a woman who smokes is regarded as a lost soul are very remote and hard to find nowadays. To assume that every woman who enjoys a cigaret would also enjoy spending her spare time in the corner saloon, if she had the chance, is to make a rashly unqualified statement.

Reparations are now revealed as unrealizable and useless.—Franz von Papen, German chancellor.

Although we hear a great deal about married women workers taking the bread out of unemployed men's mouths, nothing is said about the bread they put in the mouths of thousands of families who otherwise would be in the bread line.—Mrs. Helen Z. M. Rodgers, Buffalo, N. Y., attorney.

ESCAPING THE CITY.

There is one infallible way, says Novelist Edna Ferber, in which you can always tell when a woman has reached middle age.

When she says, "I want a place of my own in the country, with some ground, and some trees—a place that's peaceful and quiet"; then, says Miss Ferber, you may know that middle age has claimed her. A GOAT IS STILL A GOAT.

About all that anyone can say concerning the recent test by which German and British scientists tried to turn a goat into a man by the use of medieval magical formulas is, "Well—so what?"

The test, as you doubtless read, took place on the famous Brocken Peak, in Germany's mystic Hartz mountains. The scientists did everything just as the old books on magic prescribed; the scene was the spot popularly supposed to be the unseen world's favorite camping spot on the terrestrial globe; but the goat, somehow, remained a goat, and it became evident that however potent the medieval formulas may have been at one time they have lost all of their power today.

The idea of the experiment was to combat superstition. The negative result obtained ought to be helpful, surely; for the rest, it made a good show, and if it lacked the spectacular climax it should have had that can hardly be helped. Goats, in this prosaic age, must remain goats.

Reparations are now revealed as unrealizable and useless.—Franz von Papen, German chancellor.

Drafting the 1932 Democratic Platform

It was a hot session, indeed, when countless members of the special committee appointed to draft a 1932 Democratic platform gathered at Chicago—and this picture indicates as much. These men, picked by Resolutions Chairman Gilbert M. Hitchcock, are: (left to right) Senator Carter Glass, Virginia; Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts; A. Mitchell Palmer of Washington, D. C.; Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana; Jos. C. O'Mahoney, Wyoming; Senator Cordell Hull, Tennessee; Wm. G. McAdoo, California and William A. Crampton, Michigan.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Poor Duncy shortly found that he was just as shaky as could be. The wire that he was trying to walk began to sway a bit.

The other Tinies heard him call, "Hey, help me, lads. I'm going to fall. I thought the wire would stay real still. Now I'm afraid of it."

The little girl who stood nearby, upon the wire, then shouted, "I can tell you how to do this stunt. Please do just as I say."

"Swing your umbrella to and fro. Then off the wire you will not go. 'Twill give you proper balance and the trick will be like play."

When Duncy did as he was told, the other Tinies simply rolled upon the ground in laughter. What a funny sight to see! The wire began to pick up speed in swaying. Duncy cried, "It'll need another big umbrella. This will be the last of me!"

And then he shouted, "Here I come! At walking wires I'm rather dumb." He let the big umbrella go and leaped down to the ground.

The others helped him to his feet and thanked him for the funny treat. Said Duncy, "Let's look else-where, now, and see what can be found."

"Geel! There's a juggler," Windy cried. The Tinies pushed up to his side and watched him toss a big ball high hand catch it with his knees.

The juggler spied the Tinies and exclaimed, "I have a hunch that's grand. I'll toss one of you lads up, too, and do the trick with ease."

"Use me!" cried Duncy. "T'will be fun. Don't toss me, though, up to the sun!" He climbed upon the juggler's legs and then stood on his feet.

In just a moment, up he flew. To all the rest 'twas something new. As Duncy bounded up and down, it proved a thrilling treat.

Illinois Delegation at the Convention

infrequent trips to the larger cities only to market the sugar, coffee, rice, cotton and hides produced on them. The ranch houses are often beautifully situated among graceful palms, and gardens of gorgeous and exotic tropical flowers.

In Manzanillo, Colima has one of the busiest of Mexican ports. Several steamship lines plying the west coast of North America and a few of those from the Atlantic via the Panama Canal, call here. A railroad line connecting with the interior of Mexico makes Manzanillo the outlet for the state of Jalisco and its capital city, Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city. An extension of this railway eastward runs to Mexico City.

The city of Manzanillo itself is situated at the end of a long narrow peninsula which runs parallel with the coast and encloses a clear, blue lagoon, sometimes called "Laguna de los Caimanes" from the great number of alligators found in it. It's 7,000 people are nearly all engaged in the shipping, transshipping and storage of the steady stream of commodities which pour into it by steamship and by railway. Manzanillo is hot and not very healthful.

"Mt. Etna of Mexico"

Colima City, the capital, thirty-five miles inland from the coast, was founded by Cortez early in the sixteenth century. It is a handsomely built town of about 20,000 population, standing in a luxuriant, palm-decked valley, from which it commands striking views of lofty snow-capped mountains.

One of the most conspicuous of the snow peaks to be seen from the Colima plaza is that of the volcano of Colima, in the neighboring state of Jalisco. This crater was one of the centers of the recent earthquake that took a toll of 30 lives in Colima, and seriously damaged the port of Manzanillo. The volcano of Colima is the Etna of Mexico, and has been in almost continuous activity since 1869. Most of the time, however, it puffs out clouds of steamy smoke like a contented Dutchman. At night the rosy fire-glow on these billowy clouds is beautiful and awe-inspiring."

Opening the Convention With Prayer

Thousands stood with bowed heads as Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army pronounced the invocation at the opening of the Democratic convention in Chicago. She is shown here on the platform.

HEAD INJURIES—II

Head injuries not infrequently are followed by what might be termed remote effects.

Among these are such conditions as paralysis, epilepsy, mental disorders, irritability of temper, severe headaches, and what is termed traumatic neurasthenia.

It has been well established that epilepsy may follow severe head injuries. The epileptic attacks may be of the typical variety or what is considered as an equivalent to certain milder forms of epilepsy, namely, vertigo or dizziness, attacks of uncontrollable temper, memory lapses, and the like.

There are cases on record where epilepsy developed 12 years after the original injury.

The explanation given, in part at least, is that the injury caused the formation of a cicatrix or scar in the brain tissue, or that blood tumors formed following the injury, or that there was an undiscovered and untreated depressed fracture.

It is also believed that in certain individuals with what is termed a predisposition to epilepsy, a head injury may act as a precipitating cause.

Traumatic neurasthenia, characterized by severe headache, irritability, impairment of memory, difficulty in concentration, limitation of mental capacity, and so on, may also follow as a sequence of head injuries.

Traumatic neurasthenia does not imply an actual physical injury to the brain, but rather a disturbed behavior resulting from the experience.

It is a psychologic rather than an organic disease, and authorities are agreed that so-called traumatic neurasthenia is rare, except in those who are going to benefit from it.

The accident offers an avenue of escape from undesirable or painful situations which the individual meets in his every-day life and routine.

ROCHELLE NEWS

By Arthur T. Guest

Rochelle — Commissioners and delegates from Germany and Switzerland and representatives from all the leading dye and chemical manufacturers from all parts of the United States numbering about 80 attended the annual summer meeting and convention of the national organization of the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists here Saturday E. W. Morgan, President of the Morgan Dye and Bleaching Co., chairman of the division, was in charge of the day's events.

Delegates were present from Basel, Switzerland, manufacturers the Nanyana company of Germany the Society of Chemical Industries of Switzerland, and the General Dye Corporation of Germany.

The convention opened with registration at the Rochelle Town and Country Club in the morning, followed by a noon buffet luncheon, a golf tournament and swimming at Spring Lake. The business session and banquet was held at 7 o'clock in the evening at Hotel Collier with Fred Gardner and Chairman E. W. Morgan as main speakers.

Wilbur Stocking, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Stocking, who was graduated from the College of Liberal Arts of the University of Illinois, June 13th, left Sunday for Los Angeles, California, to attend the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity national convention as a delegate. He is making the trip by automobile with two fraternity brothers and expects to be away a month.

Announcement is made of three Rochelle weddings. The marriage of F. DeForest Hitchcock, of Peoria, and Miss Louise Park of Rochelle, daughter of J. Guy Park, took place at the home of the bride's father, at 545 South Second St., Thursday afternoon, June 16. Rev. R. W. Putnam, pastor of the Methodist Church of Rochelle, officiated.

The bride was attended by Miss Mildred Park, a sister and Chester Ellis, acted as best man. The bride wore a gown of pink lace and her sister was attired in blue net. Garden flowers were used in the home decoration.

The bride, a graduate of Rochelle high school, supplemented her education at Cornell College. She has been employed in the office of the Midland Canning Corporation.

The groom, a graduate of Knox College, is an athletic coach and instructor in sciences in the local high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock are honeymooning in Peoria and upon their return will live in the Winick residence recently vacated by Supt. C. A. Hills and family.

Miss Margaret File and Helen I. Carlson of Rock Island, were united in marriage by Rev. Putnam in the Methodist church here Saturday, June 18th.

Mrs. Seth W. Hoon gave a short program of nuptial music on the organ preceding the ceremony, followed by Lohengrin's wedding march. Little Lois Lindsey was flower girl and Miss Helen Warner of Payson, Ill., was bridesmaid.

The groom was attended by his brother, Reuben Carlson, of Rock Island. The ushers were Graham File, brother of the bride, and Dr. Clayton Beecham, a cousin.

The bride is an only daughter of Mrs. F. C. File, and the late Dr. File. She was graduated from Rochelle high school and the School of Music of University of Michigan, where she was a member of Delta Omicron sorority. She taught music for one year at the

A beautiful home wedding took place at the home of Rev. F. W. Nazarene, Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, when his granddaughter, Miss Mary Eigenbrode, was joined in marriage to Harlan McNett, of Mt. Morris.

The bride was a teacher several years ago in the Rochelle schools and more recently in the schools at Glen Ellyn, Ill. She is a daughter of Charles Eigenbrode, of Mt. Morris, where the couple will reside.

Harry H. Tilton has taken charge of the Spring Lake Texaco station which has been conducted by Elmer Olson, at the corner of Meridian Highway and First Ave.

His wife will have charge of the lunch room on the same lot, to be known as "Bell's Inn."

The American Legion Auxiliary announce the election of the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Roy Westlin; First Vice President—Miss Helen Lazier.

Second Vice President—Mrs. E. A. Gross.

Treasurer, Mrs. Ann Boucha; Historian—Mrs. W. L. Klewin; Chaplain—Miss Kathryn Manning.

Sergeant at Arms—Mrs. Mary Olson.

The Rochelle Rebekah Lodge held a Past Noble Grand's Night, Monday evening, June 27th. Each officer had the privilege of filling her station with a Past Noble Grand. A committee also provided a memorial service, which was presented immediately after the lodge.

This was in charge of the local degree team and was very impressive. Following this a delicious supper was served at which a penny was charged for each helping.

Mrs. Ella Larson, Senior Regent and Mrs. Annabelle Tilton, Recorder of Rochelle Chapter No. 438 Women of the Moose attended a Breakfast Conference at the Elks Parrot Grill at the first annual session of the Illinois Moose Association in Aurora, June 25.

About forty women were present. Miss Katherine Smith, Grand Recorder of the Women of the Moose, gave the opening address and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Angie Kinand of Chicago who has been appointed Chairman of the membership drive.

Illinois has accepted the challenge from Pennsylvania for more members this next year. Mrs. Kinland said each chapter must put forth special effort to promote membership to be able to meet this challenge. Each Senior Regent present was called on for short addresses. Senior Regent Dr. Florence Lyon of Forest Park, and the Senior Regent of Lockport reported that they had tried in various ways to gain new members, but without success, but were going home to put forth more effort to help Mrs. Kinland and Illinois with the drive.

Ella Larson of Rochelle, reported that when the chapter was instituted she only knew two of the members who were initiated, but with the excellent co-operation of her officers and Brother Moose she had watched her chapter grow to forty-eight members in fourteen months. She said that without this splendid cooperation and the perfect harmony of her members, she would have been unable to make this progress. In the name of her entire chapter, she offered Mrs. Kinland their heartiest co-operation in this drive.

Senior Regent Shambone of East St. Louis told of their booster meetings which are held once a month.

Miss Fern Stover, National Chairman of the Home-Making Committee, asked each member to go home and emphasize committee work. Appoint your committee and then insist on reports from the chairmen at each meeting.

Lucia Harms, Publicity Chairman of Rochelle Chapter gave a report of publicity activities in her chapter. Rochelle has a very creditable number of clippings to be turned in to Mooseheart.

Mrs. Ella Larson, Senior Regent and the entire chapter are rejoicing today over the winning of the $50.00 in cash, first prize for entering the best uniformed drill team in the state convention parade and the Silver Loving cup for having the largest delegation in the state parade.

The publicity department is very grateful to all newspapers who granted us publicity and wish to now express thanks for the same and hope next year we may be able to have our chapter at the top of the list, when prize winners are announced at the national convention.

Means Wasted Effort

The old expression "carrying coals to Newcastle" is thus explained: Newcastle is the center of the British coal trade, and a great port for the shipping of it. To "carry coals to Newcastle" is a waste of labor, a futile, or unnecessary effort, an effort to supply a need already well supplied. A phrase of Seventeenth century origin, or perhaps older. But similar proverbs exist in many languages. There is one in French about "carrying water to the river."

Ancient Greece has one about taking oxen to Athens—Athenian coins being stamped with the owl; and an oriental poet speaks of "importing pepper into Hindustan."

Ancient Greece has one about taking oxen to Athens—Athenian coins being stamped with the owl; and an oriental poet speaks of "importing pepper into Hindustan."

Means Wasted Effort

The old expression "carrying coals to Newcastle" is thus explained: Newcastle is the center of the British coal trade, and a great port for the shipping of it. To "carry coals to Newcastle" is a waste of labor, a futile, or unnecessary effort, an effort to supply a need already well supplied. A phrase of Seventeenth century origin, or perhaps older. But similar proverbs exist in many languages. There is one in French about "carrying water to the river."

WORLD NOT RUN BY OWN FORCE SPEAKER SAYS

Inspirational Services Held Yesterday At Bible Meet

The conference program was opened Monday by an address from Dr. Arthur Holmes, on the "Faith That Makes Whole." Rev. P. O. Bailey, Evangelical church, Ashton, presided. Elmer Rice led the singing and Clinton Fahrney presided at the piano. Dr. Holmes said: "Many people have the idea that the world is run by its own eternal force, but that is not true. God is omnipresent, he is everywhere, even in a grain of dust." Jesus said, "My Father worketh even until now and I work, he is God of the whole universe, its creator and sustainer." There are many puzzles in the universe, can you explain why a bird flies in the air and yet lives by breathing the air, and many people ask us to show them God. We cannot show them God. Where is your mind and what is it? You cannot analyze a brain and find out what it is. No man's brain matures until he is fifty.

A man has three hundred thousand brain cells and some students spent fifteen hundred dollars a year for four years to train their brain and yet when trained are continuously repelling new ideas. God is the creator not only of the electron but also of andromeda, one of the furthest stars which is moving in our direction and threatens some day to roll up the world like a scroll and melt the elements with fervent heat. God made the world and wrote the Bible to tell us all about it. Science claims to be founded on absolute fact and certainly, religion claims the authority of the Bible and church. Some people suppose there is antagonism between the two but there is none. Faith transcends all human reason and can believe any miracle although this should present no difficulty to the scientist. Faith is not limited but acts intellectually emotionally and volitionally. The world is always honored, the leaders of forlorn hopes like Peary of the North Pole or Hobson of the Merriman, or the prospector for his gold in Klondyke. Emotion was their driving force, while love is ours. Faith is based on emotion and is created.

He was succeeded by Dr. James A. Sutherland who spoke on the Eternal Word, basing his address on Psalm 19. In this Psalm he said: "There is a three fold method of revelation, nature, the law of the Lord and soul communion. I want to speak upon the second, 'For ever thy word is settled in Heaven.' There are seven proofs of the Eternal Word, its literary perfection, its prophetic uniqueness, its universal adaptability and its moral excellence. This is the greatest book in all the world. At 6:30 a splendid prayer meeting was held on the river bank led by Miss Mamie Scheffelein.

The evening service commenced at 6:45 P. M. Rev. H. A. Sutherland continuing his talks on "The Perfections of the Lord Jesus" last night he proved that Jesus was better than angels, in name, position, nature and power. Tonight he told us about the majesty and glory of Jesus. He said there are three magnitudes used in connection with God, his fingers brought creation into being, his hand delivered Israel, his arm was made bare at Calvary in salvation. In the II Chapter of Hebrews we see Jesus tasting death for every man, not simply the death of the body but the death of the soul which is the second death, he poured out his soul unto death, then we see him bringing many souls unto glory and his next step brings to nought and renders inoperative the powers of the devil and by these powers he is able to succor those who are tempted. He told us a story that happened in Belgium in the World War the Belgian army were recouping some of the land that had been ravaged by the Germans, after encamping one officer went for a walk he heard children's voices and finally discovered four children, the eldest of whom was only thirteen hiding in the clump of bushes, they were praying the Lord's Prayer.

They reached that part which says, "Forgive us our trespasses as but they could not finish it, they tried it time and again but still they were unable to proceed further. The officer startled them a little by falling on his knees beside him and praying with them until they completed the prayer. It was Albert, King of the Belgians. Sometimes we cannot complete our prayers and we require our King to help us. After the song service by the Evangelistic Union Choir and the Rader Orchestra. Dr. Holmes spoke again. His text was "Blessed are they which have seen and yet have believed." We always want to use our senses to comprehend God, we are apt to think of him as a creature amongst his creatures but he is the Creator and Sustainer, nor an individual located somewhere in space, he is everywhere and we need the sense of the presence of God to save us from sin. We have separated the secular and the religious but the true temple of God is found in the Christian's body. In this text Thomas was a scientist, not a fanatic, we have been living since 1640 in the realm of inductive science, which is based on observation of facts.

In the ancient world the Greeks were superior in ethics, arts and governments and they claimed that man by his intellect could be the man he wanted to be and by his will reach that ideal. Their scientists asked "What is truth?" their cynicism "What is right?" but to the Jew was given the revelation that no man can save himself and that there is no way to be saved except by Christ. Seeing is not believing. We are often deceived by our eye and by our ear and by our feelings. We create our own world. No musician is every absolutely satisfied and the ideal of perfection of beauty never came either from eye or ear it came from God alone that worketh in us both to will and to do of his own good pleasure. It is God that maketh all experience. We men of earth have here all the stuff of which paradise is made.

Tonight the Rev. James W. Gillespie, of Auburn, Illinois, will preside. Rev. James A. Sutherland will speak again on the Perfection of the Lord Jesus. Song service by the choir and orchestra, after which Dr. Arthur Holmes will speak of the "Peace of Passivity." There is an alteration on the program Wednesday. Dr. Holmes will complete his talks on "Making Men Whole" in the afternoon which Dr. Sutherland will complete in the evening.

AIMEE ORDERED TO PAY $10,000 TO PLAYWRIGHT

She Loses Suit While Her Husband Prepares
To Take Stand

Los Angeles, June 28—(AP)—The "past life" of Myrtle Joan St. Pierre was the subject of an attack by defense counsel today in her suit for $20,000 for alleged breach of promise against David Hutton, choir singer and husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

Defense attorneys said Hutton probably would take the witness stand. His appearance will follow the testimony of witnesses, who, Hutton's attorneys said, will reveal that the 30-year-old, twice married, attractive nurse entertained men at her home both prior to and subsequent to her alleged romance with the baritone.

Miss St. Pierre, in cross-examination of her story of alleged betrayal by Hutton prior to his marriage to the evangelist, denied having told a woman friend Hutton was "a judding head and a mama's boy," and that she had "no use for him." The statements were in response to the defense query seeking to determine if it was not Miss St. Pierre who had broken the alleged romance.

While her husband was washing his day in court, the evangelist also was having her legal difficulties. Superior Judge Arthur Crum late yesterday decided that Mrs. Hutton must pay $10,000 to Harvey H. Gates, scenario writer, for the scenario of a film play which she planned and which never was made.

Gates testified he wrote the scripts for "Clay in the Potter's Hands," supposedly a story of the evangelist's life, at the request of Mrs. Hutton and J. Roy Stewart, former her husband's thriller and now a director. Stewart also was named a defendant in the suit and the judgment was given against both defendants.

VETERANS TO DEMAND CASH BONUS PLANK

Organization Democratic
Ex-Service
Men Is Formed

Chicago, June 28—(AP)—A newly born national Democratic war veterans organization was ready today to fight for the cash bonus payment and other platform demands of ex-soldiers in the Democratic national convention.

It was formed last night by representatives of 28 states, among them many well known war veterans who have served or serve in Congress. As president they elected Ralph T. O'Neill of Kansas, past National Commander of the American Legion.

A resolution committee consisting of Congressman Connelly of Massachusetts, Rankin of Mississippi, Patman of Texas and the Rev. Joseph BaBrett of Wisconsin was appointed to present the following veterans' plank to the resolutions committee of the convention:

"We favor generous appropriations, honest management and sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans and their dependents. We favor all relief to widows and orphans of World War veterans and the immediate payment in full in cash of the adjusted service certificates."

Another plank, based on the national defense act of 1920, will be submitted to the Resolutions committee by a veterans' committee on national defense consisting of Gen. Richard of Maryland, former Gen. William Mitchell of Virginia.

Britain Unwilling
To Decrease Navy

London, June 28—(AP)—The British Cabinet was understood today to have turned down more or less diplomatic thumbs on President Hoover's disarmament proposals.

After a discussion of the Hoover plan for more than two hours last night the ministers were reported to have agreed the plan did not provide for enough naval vessels for the needs of the empire.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, and Sir Herbert Samuel, who remained here for the conference last night, prepared today to return to Geneva to report on the conference to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. No formal announcement was made here.

The cabinet was reported to have been of the opinion that a plan which permitted fewer larger ships and more small ones would save just as much money and suit Britain better.

The Dominions would have to be consulted, Sir John Simon said, before any formal decision could be announced.

HARRIS' TIGERS REFLECT CREDIT ON KID MANAGER

Team Of His Own Making Is Second In Junior League

By GAYLE TALBOT
Buckie Harris' exploits at Washington in 1924 and '25, when he led the Senators to two pennants and one world championship will pale by comparison if the former "Boy Manager" lands his Detroit Tigers as high as second place in the current American League race.

That other team was a veteran unit, turned over to him intact. His present team, as his own, one he has built painstakingly in three years of honest effort. He receives all the credit for this one.

Even now, on paper, the Tigers do not look impressive. They were recruited largely from the International League. Outside of the pitching staff, the only ones who could have been rated as major league stars a few months ago were Charlie Gehringer, second baseman and Earl Webb, the slugging outfielder recently obtained from Boston.

Pay Winning Ball
But they are playing winning ball, as eight victories in their last nine starts attest, they still were in second place today with the race nearly half gone.

Two of the brightest prospects being shepherded by Harris are Gerald Walker, the young outfielder from Toronto who had a trial last year, and Isadore Goldstein, the 22-year-old pitcher recruited from Beaumont in the Texas League. Walker stands second to Jimmie Foxx among American League hitters with an average of .377, and Goldstein has been credited with three victories and one loss.

They were co-stars in yesterday's 9 to 3 win over the Chicago White Sox. Goldstein limiting the Sox to five hits and Walker connecting with three doubles. Two other Tiger cubs, Stone and Davis, hit home runs.

Red Sox Lose Again
The Philadelphia Athletics supplied the day's other successes in the American League by walloping the recumbent Boston Red Sox 15 to 8 and 9 to 4 in a double header.

Jimmie Foxx and Roger Cramer enlivened the first game, each with four solid hits, and Mule Haas cracked a homer with the base loaded in the second. George Earnshaw and Tony Freitas were the winning pitchers.

St. Louis was rained out at Cleveland in the only other game scheduled.

Pittsburgh's new-won leadership of the National League grew to a full half-game as the second place Chicago Cubs dropped the day's lone encounter to the Cardinals, 4 to 1. Paul Derringer held the Cubs to five hits, while his pals worked on Grimes, May and Bush.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

FROM ONE PAIR OF HOUSE WRENS, TWO MILLION BIRDS COULD BE PRODUCED IN SIX YEARS TIME... IF ALL EGGS HATCHED AND ALL OFFSPRING BREED AND PRODUCED NORMALLY.

CABBAGE, KALE, KOHL-RABI, BRUSSELS SPROUTS, AND CAULIFLOWER ALL CAME FROM WILD CABBAGE.

The MOON and MARS ARE THE ONLY PLANETS WHOSE SOLID SURFACES CAN ACTUALLY BE SEEN.

Wild cabbage is a native of the coast of Europe from Denmark to southern France. Under the care and selection of man, its descendants are now to be found in most all parts of the world, and they are divided into five different races, of which there are some 200 varieties. The house wren lays from six to eight eggs at each setting, and hatches off several broods a year, but the mortality of such a small bird is enormous.

FRANCO-GERMAN CONFERENCE AT IMPASSE TODAY

Deliberations On Reparations Adjourned To Wednesday

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald called in the French and German today and told them that if the reparations conference is to get anywhere they will have to bury the hatchet.

He was making a determined effort to prevent the conference from breaking up without accomplishing anything. Such a danger was threatened yesterday when Chancellor Von Papen of Germany told Premier Herriot of France his country insisted upon cancellation of reparations.

That brought the two right back where they started, for the French Premier cannot retreat from the stand that France will not permit cancellation until she is assured of adequate compensation for the money she would lose if the German payments stopped.

Today's meeting brought the two Premier and their Finance Ministers to Mr. MacDonald's headquarters. A successful compromise seemed to depend upon the discovery of a formula which would satisfy both French and German opinion at home.

The three talked together for two hours and it was announced they would meet again this evening.

"Well," said M. Herriot as he left the conference, "I feel better. After three hours' consultation last night the French and Germans suspended their conversations until Wednesday."

Count Lutz von Krosigk, German Finance Minister, announced a proposal for a common cash box into which Germany would pay sums when she is financially able. This plan was offered as a substitute for the eventual assumption of reparations payments desired by France, but Premier Herriot received the proposal with reservations.

Afterwards at an interview with French newspaper men, he is understood to have declared the German scheme was inadmissible and that he could not consent to the cancellation of reparations without adequate compensation.

Senator Walsh Talks Things Over

This intimate closeup shows Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, choice of the Roosevelt forces for permanent chairman of the Democratic convention, as he talked things over with reporters at Chicago.

WORLD WAR BY "YARNS" LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Happily to Salute You, Sir!

The hand salute, and its many regulations, caused more trouble to the American army, it is estimated, than crotches or any other species of fast given by the World War. But here is the story of one salute that was given—oh, so gladly—on a main street of Le Havre. The man who figures in it is now a well-known member of the Chicago Board of Trade but at that time he had just been discharged from the French army, in which he had served almost two years before our troops arrived, had saved a discharge check on his stove and having a few hours before sailing time, spent them in a stroll through the streets of Le Havre. Here's what happened, as he tells it:

"The English are quite meticulous about saluting; quite! For one thing, their officers must never acknowledge a salute when holding anything in the saluting hand or in the mouth."

"So imagine my joy to see an English captain approaching. I was a discharge checkbook and didn't have to salute. But the captain had a swagger stick under an arm, a pipe was in his mouth, both hands were piled with packages oh, boy!"

"The captain eased over to the other side of the rue when he saw me. I crossed over, too. Then he knew that a meeting was inevitable. 'Well, I'll hand it to the captain by the time he reached me, where I was frozen to a salute, he'd managed to pile all his bundles, the swagger stick and pipe into one hand. With his free hand he acknowledged my 'courtesy' with a handsome salute. 'But I'd hate to tell the world his lips were plainly forming as he passed by!'"

CHICAGO, OR NOSE?

Knocky Frank. That scar on the nose of John Jennings, lawyer, doesn't mean that he sticks his nose in other people's business. According to him, he was smoking a cigar, when out. It was a short cigar, and when he tried to light it the flame from the lighter burned his nose, which is very prominent.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Lou Brookman
© 1932 by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY is a 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter, quarrels with her father, returns to her home here, isn't it rather attractive?

They are married and for the next time Cherry finds what it means to be a wife. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a check for $500. She returns the check because pride will not let her keep it. Dan, worried about bills, undertakes to write a short story but becomes discouraged and leaves it unfinished.

Two days later Cherry learns her mother is critically ill. Cherry goes home and at her mother's bedside the father and daughter are reconciled. Mrs. Dixon passes the crisis of her illness and after several days Cherry returns to the apartment. Her father tells her the doctor has ordered Mrs. Dixon to spend several months at the seashore. He asks Cherry to accompany her mother. Cherry refuses and Dixon decides to go himself. The night before they are to depart he calls on Cherry and Dan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

DIXON looked ill at ease. "Good evening," he said. "I didn't ring because I couldn't find a bell downstairs and the door was open. I hope you don't mind."

"Of course not," Cherry told him. "Only you did surprise me! Come in won't you?"

He entered the room. There was a moment's awkward pause and then Dan stepped forward. "How do you do, Mr. Dixon," he said.

"How do you do?"

The constraint between the two men was evident. Cherry hastened to relieve it. "Here's a chair, Father," she said, directing him to the most comfortable one. It stood near the open window and what breeze there was reached it. "It's been a hot day, hasn't it?" she went on. "Lucky you and Mother are getting off so soon."

"That's just what I've come to talk about," Dixon announced. "But you're going, aren't you? You don't mean anything's happened to change your plans?"

Her father shook his head. "No nothing's happened. But I came to ask once again if you would reconsider and come with us."

Cherry drew herself up straight in her chair. "I can't," she said. "I'm sorry but I can't."

Dan was sitting in the shadows at the opposite side of the room. Now he leaned forward. "You didn't tell me anything about this, Cherry," he said. "I didn't know you were thinking of going anywhere."

The girls cheeks flamed. "I suppose I forgot to mention it," she said. "Father asked me to go with Mother on this trip but I told him it would be impossible. And now he's decided to go himself. I'm sure that will be much better." She turned toward Dixon. "You know you really do need the rest, Father."

"You're sure you won't change your mind?"

Cherry smiled. "Quite sure," she said. "What do you think of our home here? Isn't it rather attractive?"

The one room apartment was not at its best. The living room was warm and there were still signs that it had recently served as a dining room. Dan's hat and coat and a pile of newspapers cluttered the davenport.

Cherry explained that was satisfactory and Cherry explained how they had found the apartment and subleased it.

THERE was a little more talk and then Dixon arose to go. For a moment, he hesitated, then said abruptly to Dan, "I'm afraid I was rather hasty the last time we met. Said things I shouldn't have."

"That's all right, Mr. Dixon. I guess I understand how you felt."

The older man put out his hand. "I was wrong," he said slowly. "But I hope it's not too late to make up for it. You and Cherry must both come out to see us when we're back from this trip."

"Thanks. We'll be glad to."

A few moments more and Dixon was gone. Cherry whirled around as the door closed after him.

"You see, Dan!" she exclaimed happily. "Father isn't a bit like you thought he was. Oh, I'm so glad he came even if the place is a sight. Aren't you glad, too?"

"Why—yes, I guess so."

"You guess so? Don't you know?"

"Yes, of course. Sure, I'm glad. But why didn't you tell me about this trip, Cherry?"

"I mean about your father asking you to go with them? How did it happen you didn't say anything about that?"

"Oh, I guess it just didn't seem very important. I said I couldn't and that seemed to be all there was to it."

Dan crossed the room and looked out on the night. For several moments he was silent. Then he said, "It isn't too late to change your mind about it, is it?"

"Yes, I do."

Cherry was beside him. "You want me to go?" she repeated in amazement. "Why, Dan, what's come over you? I don't understand—"

He turned and faced her. "There's nothing to understand," he said. "Why should you spend the rest of the summer in a hot, dumpy little place like this when you could be at the seashore? Why should you be cooking and washing dishes when you could be living in an expensive hotel with every thing in the world to make you comfortable? I know I can't give you the sort of things you've been accustomed to but that's no reason you have to give them up. You can call up your father in the morning and tell him you've changed your mind."

The flush was gone from Cherry's cheeks. "I told Father I couldn't go because I didn't want to," she said quietly. "I don't want to go now."

"You—really mean that?"

"Of course I mean it."

DAN dropped to the window seat. He leaned forward, resting both arms on his knees. "Cherry," he said. "I've been a sap! I thought I was going to get half a dozen raises and sell a lot of stories in no time. I thought we'd be moving into a better apartment, buy a car—oh, I had all sorts of plans! It's decent of you to be a sport about all this but we might as well face it. I'm a dub and that's all I'll ever be!"

"But that's not true, Dan! Please don't let yourself be discouraged! There's lots of time ahead. You haven't any reason to feel this way—"

"Haven't I? Look!"

He went to the davenport, picked up his coat and drew an envelope from a pocket. Without another word he handed the envelope to Cherry.

She drew out the bulky, folded pages. As she did so a small, rectangular bit of paper fell into her lap. She picked it up and read:

"We are sorry that we are unable to make use of the enclosed manuscript. Thank you for submitting it."

The name printed on the slip was that of a famous magazine. Cherry unfolded the pages. It was Dan's story about Gus, the taxicab driver, the story he had started on the rainy Sunday so long ago.

"I finished it," he told her, "while your mother was sick and you were staying with her. I didn't mean to say anything about it unless they took it. Wanted to surprise you! I had another one ready to send if they took this. Well, that can go into the wastebasket!"

He reached for the manuscript but Cherry drew back. "Please," she begged. "Let me keep it. I want to read it. Oh, I'm sorry I want to read it. I'm sorry that old editor didn't like it but that old editor was discouraged! Maybe the next one will be different—"

But Dan was not to be shaken from his gloomy mood. Later when Cherry had finished reading the manuscript and was glowingly enthusiastic about it he was only half convinced. He got the second story, an account of two urchins called down juvenile court, from the desk drawer and she read that.

"They're good!" Cherry insisted fervently. "I don't care what that editor or anyone else thinks. These stories are interesting!"

Dan laughed at her enthusiasm, was pleased more than he would admit.

"I like the name of this second one, too," she told him. "Kemp's Crime." How did you happen to think of that? He had called the other story simply, "Night Life."

"Oh, I don't know. Saw some kids in court one day. About half of it's true and the rest I imagined to suit myself."

"Listen, Dan," Cherry said seriously, "no matter what anyone else thinks, I know you're going to write great stories some day!"

"And in the meantime we'll go to the poor house."

"We certainly will not! Don't you understand, dear, that I'd rather be here with you living just as we are than in the finest hotel in the world with all the money there is if you weren't there?"

He told her she was a very foolish little girl and neither of them believed it.

THE house at Briartop had been closed for an indefinite period. The cook and her husband were the only ones to remain there. Martha and Sarah were both to visit relatives, departing as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Dixon had gone. Martin, the chauffeur, was to take the car to the eastern resort and remain there.

Cherry rode with her parents to the station. They were making the trip by rail because Mrs. Dixon considered it more comfortable. Miss Evans, the nurse, looking almost like a stranger in her chic blue frock and hat, sat with Cherry and her mother in the rear seat.

The train was to leave at 10 o'clock but already the day was warm. Mrs. Dixon, dressed in this gray silk, appeared pale and delicate as she leaned back against the seat. Her hand, in its gray glove, clung to Cherry's.

The limousine swerved into the circular drive that led to the entrance of the station. Another mistake and the car had halted. Martin had the door open and was helping them out.

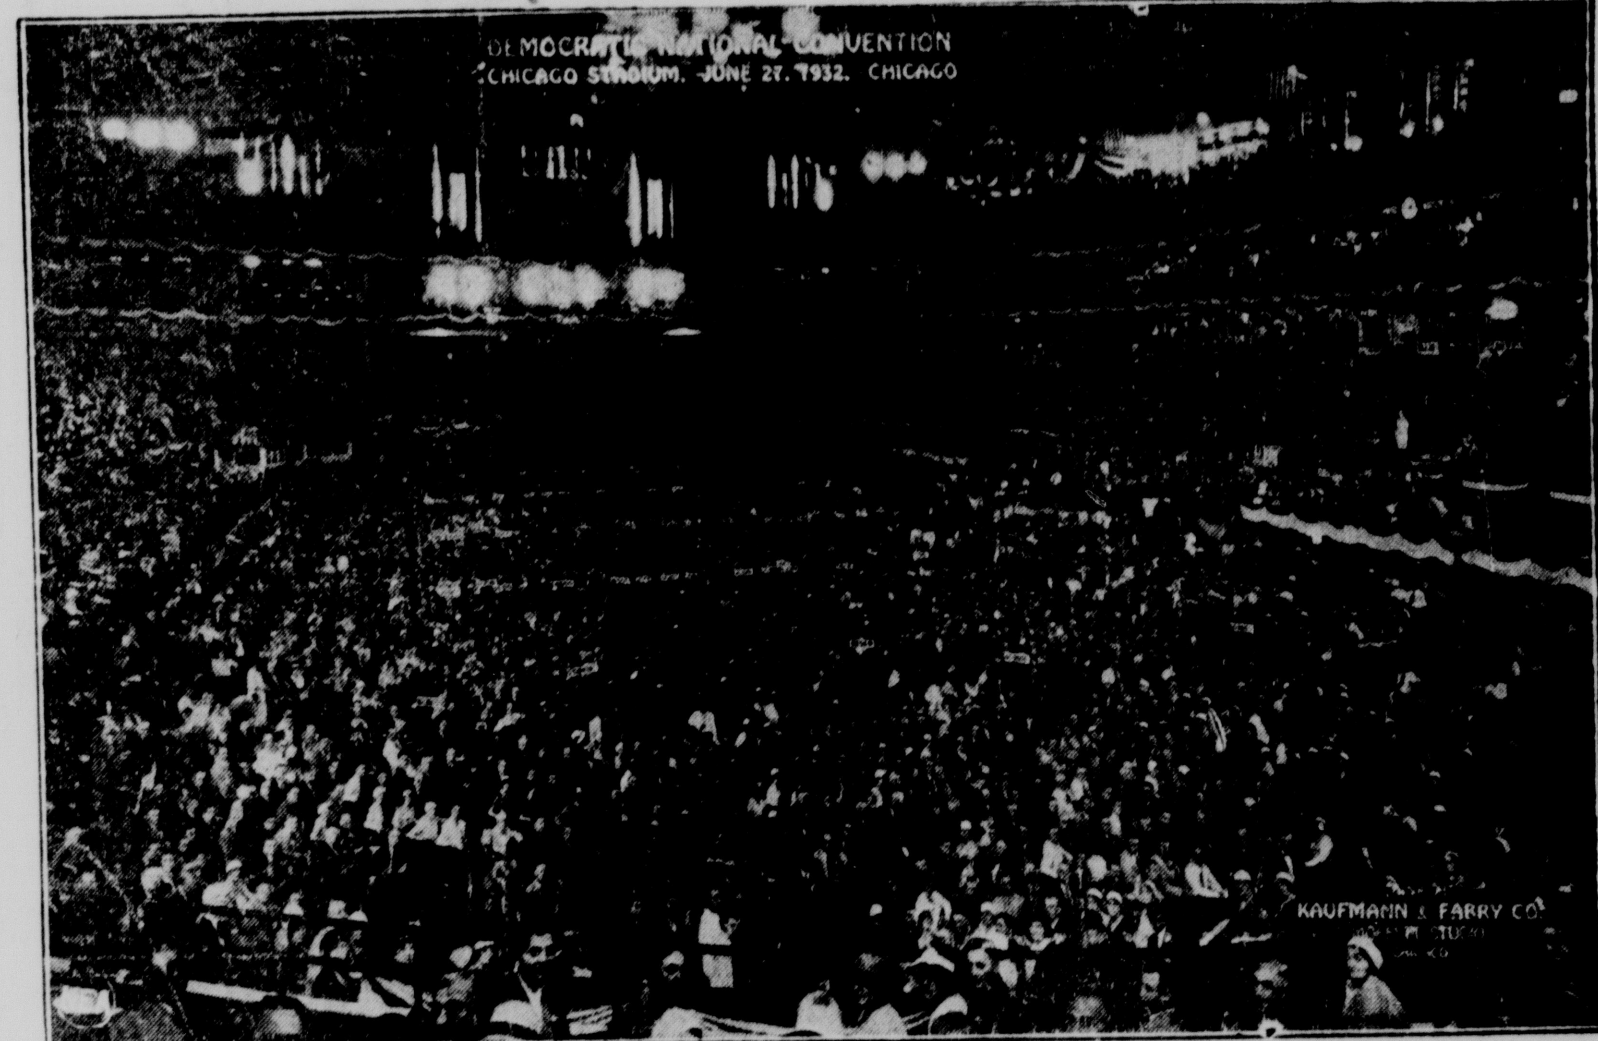

"Plenty of time," Walter Dixon assured them. "We've another 10 minutes yet."

They found seats in the waiting room. Mr. Dixon disappeared, then returned with newspapers and magazines. In what seemed an incredibly short time the train was pulling into the station. Cherry's arms were around her mother. Kisses, farewells, renewed promises. All about them others were saying goodby, calling greetings.

Cherry could not go beyond the train gate. She waved until her parents and the nurse had disappeared into the car. Then she turned, her eyes a mist of tears. For the first time she realized that she had cut herself completely and finally from the past. What was ahead?

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Chicago — The defeat a few weeks ago of Ruth Bryan Owen in her effort to hold her post in congress from the fourth district of Florida knocked into a cocked hat one of the most time-honored rules in the congressional guide book.

"Take care of the folks back home and they will take care of you," reads this rule.

Almost anyone on Capitol Hill will tell you that Ruth Bryan Owen spent more time and energy in looking out for her constituents than probably any other member of congress.

AIDED HER DISTRICT—
She was immediately at the job of doing something for her district when she went to Washington back in 1928. Day and night, on and off the floor of the house, in and out of Washington, it appeared to be her sole concern.

She would talk about her fishermen with the fervor and tenderness of a mother. She would talk about the needs of her farmer folk in tones of actual distress. She pushed her private bills with as much, if not more, enthusiasm than she did major legislation.

She made an 8,000 mile lecture tour to finance a trip to Washington for one boy and one girl from each of the 18 counties in her district. She made 42 addresses in seven weeks.

Gossip has it that when she first went to the house she sought advice of one of the veteran and successful members as to what course she should pursue.

"Ruth," he is reported to have told her, "your opportunity is a rare one. The reputation of your father has paved the way. Get on to one or two big national issues and stay there. It doesn't matter so much if they fail. Even defeat will make you."

Her record doesn't indicate that she followed this particular advice. Her primary concern during her two terms in congress was for her district.

FOLLOWED OWN COURSE—
She has much of the magnetism of her famous father, William A. Bryan, but was determined to carve out her political destiny along her own lines.

Much of the color of the feminine 'block' in the House will be lost without her. Slim, vital and active, she always managed to find time for social recreation along with her heavy congressional work.

which tells about a maimed war veteran and a series of murders in his house. It's highly ingenious, and if it isn't very creditable it will at least keep you awake.

Carolyn Wells fans may be glad to know that Lippincott has put out 'The Omnibus Fleming Stone'. This contains, in one volume, four novels—Vicky Van; Spooky Hollow; The Mystery of the Sycamore and Curved Blades. Fleming Stone is not my favorite detective but a lot of people seem to like him—and here he is, in all his glory.

Health Hints: Amateur Athletes

By JAS. J. CORBETT

These articles have been prepared by Mr. Corbett in cooperation with the staff of the Department of Health of the City of New York and are being released for the free use of newspapers throughout the country in the interest of the health of boys and girls.

2. Correcting Your Menu

Every boy and girl should know that proper food is necessary to give the body and strength it requires for athletics of any kind.

Food furnishes the fuel which makes possible the work of our muscles and internal organs, and the protein, minerals, and other substances required for growth and for the replacement of worn-out tissue.

You should eat plenty of vegetables, some of them raw in the form of salad; in addition to cereal, potatoes, and bread and butter, your diet should include meat, fish or eggs and you should drink at least one full glass of milk with every meal. Eat fruit or ice cream for dessert, eschew pastries. This makes for a balanced menu, and a balanced menu is the secret of good health.

Eat sparingly of sweets, and then only after a meal. Do not eat between meals. If you feel hungry drink a glass of milk.

Try the above for two weeks and you will notice a marked change in your health.

Convention Sees Real Democratic Donkey

A BOOK A DAY

The mystery story is, of all novels, the one best adapted for summer reading. You see, a week after you have read the average mystery you have completely forgotten everything in it, so you can read it over again and have just as much fun as you did the first time. That way, three or four books will last you all summer.

One of the current mysteries you might like is "Murder on Monday," by Charles Barry. This has to do with an English betting agent who made a freak will by which his estate would go to one relative if he died on Monday, to another if he died on Tuesday, and so on. He is found dead in a quarry after he disappeared in a snowstorm, and the questions are—when did he die, and who did it? It's pretty well handled, easy to read and hard to figure out.

Then there is "The Pilditch Puzzle," by W. B. M. Ferguson.

Do you inhale?

"Like a stepchild"

...a question generally avoided. Why?

Do you inhale? Why has this question been treated "like a stepchild" in cigarette advertising?

It's a subject vital to you—for you do inhale—we all do—every smoker inhales—every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? A simple question. But silence on the subject—may be full of meaning.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this question ... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Lucky Strike's famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do! Then this vital message is for you!
